Ask “Big” For Startup Funding—Kanye Style

A “no” doesn’t mean “never”

by Samara Lynn Posted: February 17, 2016

A- A A+

Sometimes it takes sheer boldness for success.

Kanye West’s plea to Mark Zuckerberg for $1 billion via Twitter to invest in “Kanye ideas” is as bold as a funding request can get.

RELATED: [What Matters Most to Venture Capitalists]

While asking a billionaire for money may get the rest of us kicked off of Twitter for violating The Twitter Rules against harassment, you do have to think and ask “big” when seeking funding for your startup dream. Here are advice tidbits from some of the most seasoned startup advisers around on how you can “ask big” like Kanye, when dealing with investors:
